St. Paul's Cathedral. "This, the fifth largest church in Christendom, stands upon Ludgate Hill." Before the West Facade is a statue of Queen Anne, and beside this (as an inscription in the pavement shows) Queen Victoria gave thanks for her sixty years' reign, in 1897. The two bell-towers are 222 feet high, and in the northern campanile hangs "Great Paul," the largest bell in England, weighing 16 tons.
